

How the Ashurst Leadership Centre works

Whether you're a non-executive director or C-suite leader, the ALC offers curated programs to meet your areas of focus and individual needs. It will help you:

Benefit from industry engagement

Members attend intimate peer-to-peer discussions led by influential external speakers and trusted experts on the trends and issues that are top-of-mind for boards and executives. By keeping abreast of new developments, including the latest strategies and best practices, you will stay ahead of the game.

Build a more powerful network

Members gain exclusive invitations to networking opportunities with peers, including signature events, an end-of-year gala, and year-round breakfast and dinner invitations. These forums will enable you to connect with fellow leaders from around the world, trade insights on topical issues, gain fresh inspiration on how to solve complex challenges and grow your professional brand.

Broaden knowledge of global trends

Through the inspirational Business Agenda podcast and comprehensive library of thought leadership resources, ALC members gain access to valuable insights to help them deliver value to their business and stakeholders.

Boost leadership excellence

Members get the tools they need to excel through access to facilitators of world-class training and development programs, including modules delivered from Ashurst's Global Cognitive Endurance Programme. This strand of the ALC delivers new perspectives on leadership in today's changing contexts, allowing members to explore personal leadership challenges with fresh insight.

The ALC will expand your network by connecting you with global peers

Delivering value to members

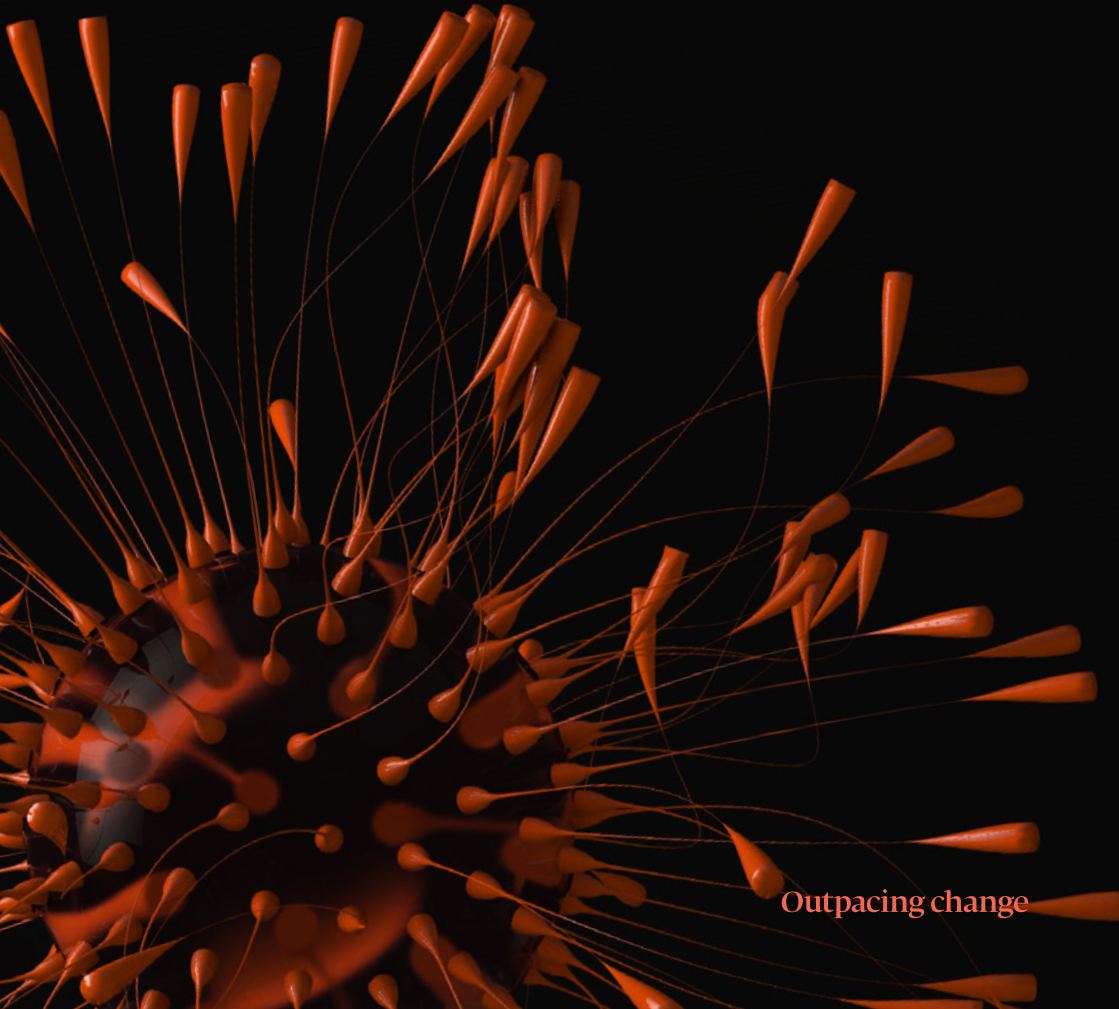

When you participate in the ALC program, you benefit from a powerful set of learning and engagement experiences that have been carefully designed to deliver fresh perspectives on governance and leadership.

Through live and virtual program sessions, you'll engage directly with renowned speakers and trusted experts to learn from their latest insights and gain actionable takeaways. In addition, the ALC will expand your network by connecting you with global peers.

Becoming a member of the ALC will spur your growth as a leader. Along with enhancing your ability to achieve better outcomes and drive operational excellence, you will be better able to capture opportunities that add value to your organisation.

Change your leadership game

At Ashurst, we have a deep understanding of the complex challenges board members and senior executives face in today's fast-evolving business environment.

The Ashurst Leadership Centre (ALC) is a global leadership initiative created to help non-executive directors and C-suite executives, including General Counsel, broaden their capabilities and deepen their impact so they can meet those challenges head-on. Our programs offer select leaders from ASX 200 and FTSE 350 companies a way to gain the insights, diverse perspectives and peer connections they need to succeed in their roles.

The ALC harnesses the capabilities of global leaders, subject-matter specialists and senior peers through exclusive small-group discussions and experiential learning opportunities. This approach enables our members to share experiences and explore governance and leadership challenges through intimate industry engagement opportunities, networking events and retreats. During these sessions, members of the ALC community forge enduring bonds with other senior leaders across industry sectors and national borders.

Welcome

I'm delighted to introduce the Ashurst Leadership Centre.

For 200 years, Ashurst has advised corporates, financial institutions and governments on their most complex transactions, projects and disputes. We offer global reach and insight, combined with knowledge and understanding of local markets.

This background means we understand how market volatility, geopolitical risk and technological disruption are constantly changing the way companies compete across industries and borders. In response, we have created the ALC to help boards and senior executives from ASX 200 and FTSE 350 companies better navigate this volatility and outperform the competition.

Our curated programs and exclusive peer-to-peer experiences are designed to facilitate discussion on the macro themes impacting business and society, from the shifting geopolitical landscape to issues such as the energy transition, digitisation and ESG.

Other key topics include boardroom governance, risk management, creating high-performing teams, and building trust and influence. By focusing on these areas, the ALC aims to help leaders gain the insights they need to add strategic value at their companies.

Whether it is through rich conversations, experiential learning or networking opportunities, we can help you grow as a leader and position your organisation for success.

I look forward to welcoming you to the ALC community.
